Imperial flair

The Schönbrunn Orangery is completed. It serves not only as a place for exotic plants to overwinter, but also as a stage for imperial celebrations.

W. A. Mozart vs. A. Salieri: The Baroque Duel

In the Schönbrunn Orangery, W. A. Mozart competes in a musical contest against his “rival” Antonio Salieri—at the imperial request of Joseph II. It is considered the oldest concert venue in Vienna.

The Dancing Congress

In October 1814, the “Dancing Congress of Vienna” met in the Orangery at Schönbrunn Palace.

Royal residence life

From 1740 to 1918, Schönbrunn Palace was the imperial summer residence of countless Habsburgs, including Empress Maria Theresa, Emperor Joseph II, Emperor Franz Joseph I, and Empress Elisabeth, known as “Sisi.”

The Orangery in new splendor

Renovation of the Orangery began in 1980, and in 1985 Gerald Dunst drew up a plan for redesigning the Orangery parterre. It was not until 1992, with the founding of the Schloss Schönbrunn Kultur- und Betriebsgesellschaft m.b.H., that comprehensive renovation work began.

UNESCO World Heritage Site

Musical experience with tradition

The Schönbrunn Palace Orchestra was founded in 1997 and will celebrate its 10,000th concert in 2026, in addition to over 500 concerts abroad. Today, it performs daily in the historic Schönbrunn Orangery with works by W. A. Mozart and Johann Strauss. On summer evenings, concert guests enjoy free access to the Orangery Garden.
