The Orangery

between music, monarchy, and world history

1754

Imperial Flair

The Schönbrunn Orangery is completed. It serves not only for overwintering exotic plants, but also as a venue for imperial festivities. To this day, it is regarded as Vienna's oldest performance venue.

1786

W. A. Mozart vs. A. Salieri: The Baroque Duel

In the Schönbrunn Orangery, W. A. Mozart competes in a musical contest against his "rival" Antonio Salieri at the request of Emperor Joseph II.

The Dancing Congress

The "Dancing Congress of Vienna" takes place in the Schönbrunn Orangery, referring to the social programme in which European monarchs and diplomats celebrated at lavish festivities while negotiating the reorganisation of Europe.

1918

Imperial Residential Life

From 1740 to 1918, Schönbrunn Palace served as the imperial summer residence of numerous Habsburgs, including Empress Maria Theresa, Emperor Joseph II, Emperor Franz Joseph I, and Empress Elisabeth, known as "Sisi".

1980

The Orangery in Renewed Splendour

The restoration of the Orangery began in 1980, and in 1985 Gerald Dunst developed a plan for redesigning the Orangery parterre. Comprehensive renovation commenced in 1992 with the establishment of the Schönbrunn Palace Cultural and Operating Company.

1996

UNESCO World Heritage Site

1997
